

Dear sirs

ACT

Spain on December 27, 2012

I appeal to your wisdom, I want to ask them to consider the value of wildlife. that will be the world if only we Middlesbrough.

Next month the board of game will consider two Feasibility Assessments that propose Killing some of Southeast Alaska's rare Alexander Archipelago wolves in order to increase the population of Sitka Black-tailed Deer for Hunters.

It is important to express my opposition to this ill-advised, unscientific predator control program right from the start.

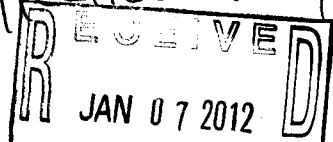

Nature over millions of years has established the best systems of regulation of life. Human beings should not set their own because in any case keep the perfect balance.

We want to kill wolves so that more deer to hunt for fun, this is ridiculous. The wolf is to regulate the exact amount that has to be herbivores in an ecosystem. It's the cycle of life which the Creator has established, please respect it, we're just human beings.

I know I'm from a far country, but I care about this issue because you have the privilege of having the last wild forests, and live belongs to the earth, not in men, we also belong to him.

Our mission is to care for the earth and all its creatures, we do not have the intelligence to the contrary

Affectionately

Janier Ruere